

International Fair of Work Protection, Fire-Fighting and Rescue Equipment SAWO Coming to Poznań This April

From 14–16 April 2026, Poznań will host the next edition of the International Fair of Work Protection, Fire-Fighting and Rescue Equipment SAWO – the largest OSH (Occupational Safety and Health) industry event in Central and Eastern Europe.

SAWO is a specialised platform for showcasing modern technologies and solutions in the fields of workplace safety, rescue services and fire protection. For many years, the event has brought together professionals responsible for protecting life and health in the workplace, as well as representatives of emergency services, industry and the public sector.

Broad thematic scope

The thematic scope of SAWO covers a comprehensive range of products and services dedicated to occupational safety and rescue, including, among others:

- personal protective equipment (PPE) – respiratory, eye, hearing, head, hand, leg and skin protection,
- protective and workwear, fall protection systems and first aid equipment,
- collective protection measures, including protection against noise, explosion, radiation and electric shock,
- fire protection and firefighting systems,
- specialist equipment for rescue services, including chemical, high-angle and road rescue equipment, fire vehicles and communication systems.

Knowledge, practice and live demonstrations

An integral part of SAWO will be industry conferences, during which experts and practitioners will share their knowledge on current challenges, regulations and best practices in OSH, ergonomics, rescue operations and fire protection. The event programme will also include rescue demonstrations and presentations of modern technologies and ergonomic solutions designed to enhance safety and comfort at work.

Exhibitors and visitors

SAWO 2026 is shaping up to be a record-breaking edition. Nearly 300 companies from around the world have already confirmed their participation as exhibitors. Representatives of companies from Germany, Italy, France, Spain, the Nordic countries, Asia and the United States will come to Poznań. The exhibition will feature both global manufacturers and technology leaders, as well as specialised companies providing solutions for rescue services, fire protection and industry.

The fair is primarily aimed at professionals, including:

- OSH and fire protection officers,
- firefighters and rescuers,
- installers and service technicians of safety systems,
- sales representatives and distributors of protective equipment.

At the same time, the organisers also foresee participation opportunities for the general public through ticket sales.

A platform for knowledge and networking

The dynamically growing number of exhibitors and the expanding exhibition space confirm the increasing importance of SAWO as one of the key industry events in Europe. The fair provides a unique space for building business relationships, discovering the latest trends and implementing innovative solutions in the field of workplace safety and life protection.

At the same time, the International Security Trade Fair Securex and the International Installation Trade Fair Instalacje will also take place.
